

Nature never forgets!

Civilized man, it is a shame that although you have the ability to stay forever on earth as a unique creature for the promotion of welfare and peace you chose to treat the planet as your victim.

You lived in paradise summer and winter but with your mania to acquire wealth like Croesus you managed to make life for every living species extremely difficult in the sea and on earth.

You strive to change eco balances of thousands of years the unnatural as natural you support with passion the white for what reason you turn to black?
How you will manage to survive in the storm you create!

Despite the great effort I make it is impossible human beings' actions to accept nether respect for laws or fear of God it seems that they sacrifice their logic but even if God forgives, nature never forgets!
